Self Sabotage:

Combining Eastern and Western Viewpoints on Autoimmune Conditions

Do you ever feel like your body is working against you on your journey to health? For people with autoimmune disorders (diseases where the immune system attacks healthy tissues) this problem is a reality. What can be done help sufferers of these ailments?

Join Jessica Manson, MACOM, Dipl.OM, LAc to discover:

- what autoimmune conditions are
- why some people's bodies turn against them while others do not
- how you can figure out your risk of developing an autoimmune problem
- what you can do to improve and maintain health with an autoimmune condition

Admission is FREE, and all attendees will receive a $10 discount toward their first visit or $5 off a returning visit to Integrative Oriental Medicine!

PRESENTER

Jessica Manson is a licensed acupuncturist (L.Ac.) who obtained her MACOM degree in 2015. Her interest in Oriental medicine was sparked in 2006 when she found her own success story as a patient. She has extensive training in pulse diagnosis, nutritional and herbal consultation, and motor point acupuncture. In addition to her running her practice, Integrative Oriental Medicine, Jessica serves as an assistant faculty member at AOMA.
